This lack of wealth was felt most by the citizens in France. Many were starving. The cost of bread was very high, and their wages were very low.

37 page book

Everyone in France was divided into 3 Estates.

The Third Estate included all the rest of the citizens, most of whom were poor farmers. This made up 98% of the population.

19

The citizens, in general, were nervous about this new revolution. They thought the lords and nobles would try to attack them. So, the citizens began attacking the manors and castles of the lords. This time was known as The Great Fear.

27

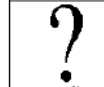

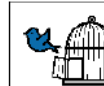

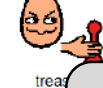

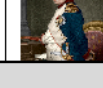

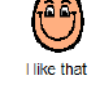

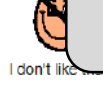

During this time, over 17000 people were killed using the Guillotine. Even the queen, Marie Antoinette, suspected of treason, was beheaded.

32

Napoleon took over France and made himself the new leader. Eventually, he had himself appointed as the emperor of France and began taking over all of the rest of Europe.
